All The Glory

John 19 vs 30

I look at you with your arms stretched wide
A crown of thorns and blood stained tears
Falling from your eyes
Every part of you open wide
A servant's love and a father giving up his only child

I can't help but feel
A love that's deep inside
You changed my heart and
Gave me a new life

All The Glory

John 19 vs 30

We look to the heavens
To the one we glorify
You rose and you conquered
After being crucified
We worship you We worship
We worship you Father we worship

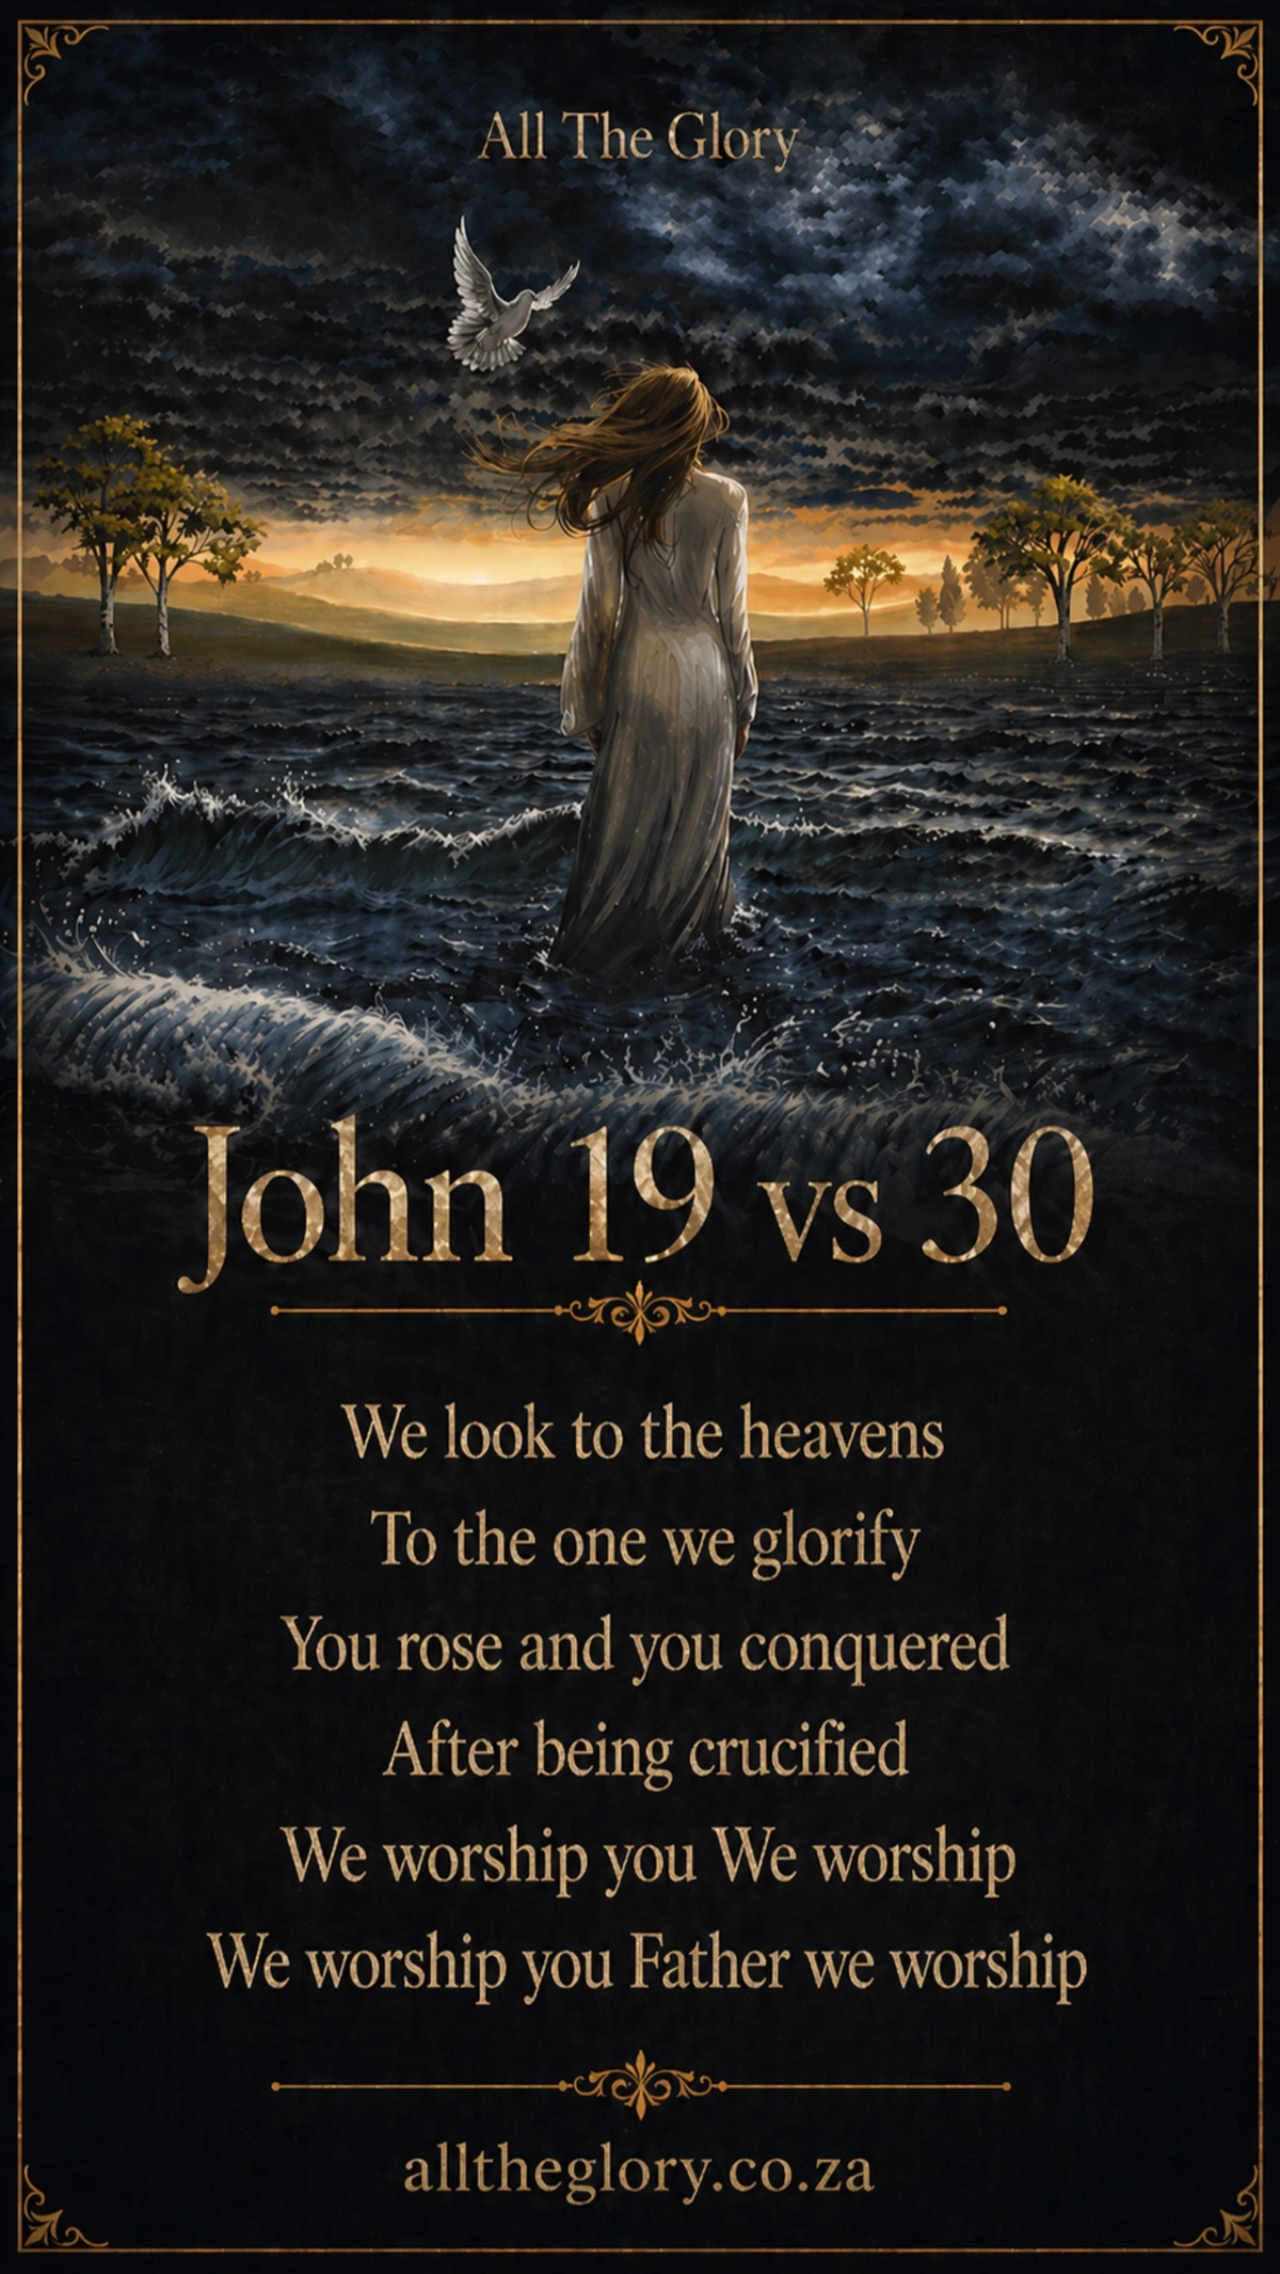

All The Glory

John 19 vs 30

You look at me when I go through trials
A crown of life that you give to me
Through your son I see your smile
Every part of you open wide
A servant's love and a father giving up his only child

I can't help but feel
A love that's deep inside
You changed my heart and
Gave me a new life
